Dear [Redacted]

STAT

Subject: Study of Harrassments and Provocations

In response to your memorandum SECOM-D-172, dated May 5, 1982, I support the use of the subject study as extensively as possible.

I anticipate incorporating both the classified and unclassified versions into the Department's defensive security briefing program. The use of specific cases will, I feel, contribute to a greater understanding of, and a more common-sense attitude toward, the realities of travel to Communist countries.

I am planning also to distribute the unclassified version of the study to DOJ field offices, e.g., U.S. Attorneys Offices, for use by the administrative/security officers in providing defensive security briefings to cleared Department personnel.

This study affords the Department, and the Intelligence Community as a whole, an opportunity to enhance its personnel security/security awareness programs beyond the realm of Sensitive Compartmented Information.

If you would like to discuss this further, please do not hesitate to contact me on 633-2094.

Sincerely,
